Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Margalita, Chien—A new Robin-son Crusoe, who shuns society, has been found on an island off the Chilean coast.
Sailors of the French vessel, Tolosa, who landed on Rincón Island seeking water, said they followed footprints and surprised a man covered with goatskins in a semi-savage manner.
Federico Lavariere, one of the sailors, tried to talk to the king of the black life, but he answered only in guttural sounds, as though he had forgotten his language. By signs, the sailors induced him to lead them to a hidden source of water.
On leaving, they invited him to go along, but he took one look at the ship and fled into the bush.
It was on Juan Fernandez Island off the central part of Chile that Alexander Selkirk, the prototype of "Robinson Crusoe," lived.

Half a Dozen Strides.
Mt. Clemens, Mich.—Charles Frazier, at 85 years, still is a firm believer in the institution of matrimony. He has just taken as his sixth bride, Mrs. Marie Spradbury, 62. It is the second marital venture for the new Mrs. Frazier.
Simp and Sock.
Chicago—Said eight-year-old Lindy Johnson to Judge Jay A. Schiller: "Didn't you ever soap a window when you were a kid?"
Said the court:
"Well," continued Lindy, "what do you think of a man who socks a kid in the jaw just for soaping a window? There's lots of windows I never gets washed if it wasn't for kids like me."
Judge Schiller answered by fining Henry Olson $10 for "socking" Lindy.

Doing The Thing Brown.
Scottsbluff, Ind.—John Brown reported for jury duty. The first case was Brown. Another Brown was awaiting trial. The defendant's wife was Mary Brown, same name as Juror Brown's wife. Juror Brown asked to be excused.
John, The Strong Man.
Fallon City, Neb.—John Buchholt, 18 and brawny, doesn't know his own strength. To find out and to demonstrate to several friends he went into a graveyard and poked over 14 tombstones.

A judge decided to put him in jail for five days and ordered him to pay the cost of restoring the markers.

Plattekill.
Plattekill, Nov. 1.—The Plattekill Grange members will hold their annual chicken supper in the Grange Hall Wednesday evening. At the conclusion of the supper dancing will be enjoyed with music furnished by Gillespie's Barnstormers Orchestra of Walpole.
The Helen A. Palmer W. C. T. U. meeting for November will be held at Mrs. Samuel Dransfield's, Thursday afternoon, November 3. A report of the Ulster County Institute, which was held in the Plattekill Methodist Church, will be made at this time.
A second card party in a series planned was held in the Grange Hall Saturday evening.

Miss Kleinmaier Honored
AT GAS ASSOCIATION MEET
Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, home service director of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation at Poughkeepsie, was appointed chairman of the home service committee of the American Gas Association at its annual convention at Atlantic City.
This national honor has come to Miss Kleinmaier as a result of her work as a member of this important committee in past years and also in consideration of her company's active work in promoting home modernizing service in the Hudson valley.

East Kingston Supper.
The ladies of the East Kingston M. E. Church will hold their annual chicken supper at the church on November 3 from 5 p. m. until all have been served. All are cordially invited to patronize the supper.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.
The Ladies' Aid of the Fair Street Reformed Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Herbert Darrow, 42 Josephine avenue, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Padlocks Asked for Kingston Saloons
New York, Oct. 31 (Special).—Padlock proceedings were begun in Federal Court here today against five so-called saloons in Kingston. The complaints against the places, which were recently visited in a series of raids by prohibition agents, charge sale and possession of liquor and common nuisance. Assistant United States Attorney Earle N. Bishop asks, in the papers filed by him, that the saloons be closed for one year.
The establishments involved are described as: saloon in two rooms on the ground floor and basement of 13 East Strand, operated by James Caughlin. The landlord is George De Vise; saloon in four rooms on the first floor of 41 Hasbrouck avenue. Eugene Bradford is the tenant and Marie Margolis the owner; saloon in three rooms on the first floor of 120 Hasbrouck avenue. The business is conducted by John Woyden and the property owned by Stephen Melockowicz; saloon in three rooms on the ground floor and basement of 53 East Strand. Michael Desico is the tenant and Sam Scriber the landlord; and the saloon in three rooms on the first floor of 41 East Strand. Eugene Sattile is the proprietor. The building is owned by Frank Sattile.
No dates have yet been set for hearings in the proceedings.

"Nature in the Raw"
is seldom MILD

THE JUGGERNAUT OF THE JUNGLE
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the famous animal painter, Paul Branson...inspired by the savage charge of the African rhinoceros crashing through the untamed jungle. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobacco has no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
That's the reason of mild Luckies

Bungalows on Stilts Succumb to Waves

New York, Nov. 1 (AP)—A score of bungalows built on stilts along Jamaica Bay at Broad Channel were hurled into the water by wind and waves today. Men, women and children were dumped into the bay. Shortly after the first houses fell broke one in the famous bungalow colony.

The first bungalows to be torn from their stilts were three above the waterline. One was unoccupied. About a dozen occupants of the other two were treated by ambulance doctors for minor injuries.

The houses built directly over the water began to tear from their supports under the pound of waves raised by a high wind.

One after another they tumbled into the water and the cries of tenants hurled into the waves or trapped in the half submerged houses drew a large crowd which was unable to give any great assistance.

Police rescue squads and ambulances were arriving on the scene as fire suddenly added a new terror to the already panic stricken bungalow dwellers.

Agricultural Notes

Nearly half the world's population uses soybeans daily as a protein food.

Much strawberries after the group is frozen and use much that is left from weed seeds.

Failed leaves should be raked and piled for use as a mulch, protection for perennial beds, or for manure for next year's garden.

Drain the water out of all parts of the sprayer and all the working parts well before storing the machine for the winter.

It is especially important that be planted wheat be treated with copper carbonate dust to protect it from the ravages of stinking smut.

Fighting the corn borer has helped farmers to do a better job of soil preparation. Plowing under all trash is a fundamental control measure.

You can store vegetable root crops in a barrel outdoors if it is well covered with layers of soil and straw or leaves. The barrel head makes a good door.

Veil Fits Tone of Chic to New Fall Fashions

With her high pitched-in waistline, leg-of-mutton sleeves, high neckline, and hat perched at a precarious angle, this fall every woman will want to indulge in her secret ambition to wear a veil. The coquettish possibilities of the veil, as part of the Edwardian silhouette, are irresistible.

There are a lot of new wrinkles. Literally and figuratively, in the new fall veils.

28 INCHES IS LIFE MARGIN IN CRASH

Scientist Uses Ruler in Automobile Collision.

State College, Pa.—The difference between death in a head-on collision in an automobile traveling 20 miles an hour and safety is about 28 inches.

The accident which proved this, and the modifications in motor car construction which it suggests, are described by H. L. Yeagley, physicist of Pennsylvania State college.

"I was climbing the side of Nittany mountain," he says, "when a car came around a curve at 35-mile speed, with the driver asleep at the wheel."

"It dashed head-on into a concrete abutment. Though the car was a total wreck, its driver was only bruised."

The scientist made measurements to account for the seeming miracle, and found it was no miracle at all.

Examination revealed first that the car moved about two feet between the time the bumper hit the concrete and complete stoppage.

The steering wheel, which had supported the head, arms and chest of the sleeping driver, had been bent forward about six inches.

"From this," says Mr. Yeagley, "it is apparent that the man was stopped through a distance of about 2 1/2 feet (30 inches). This is about the same as falling into a fireman's net from the fourth floor."

He calculated that any person sitting in the front seat beside the driver must have pitched forward at nearly full car speed across the space between him and the windshield.

By the time the passenger struck these objects the car would have been so nearly stopped that his body would have only about 2 inches to travel forward while there was still left any of the cushioning forward motion of the car.

This impact, Mr. Yeagley calculates, would be a "probable killing force." It is 28 inches less than the driver had for stopping.

The scientist observed that often the driver escapes injury, while a passenger is killed.

Finds Bones of "Thunder Beast" in South Dakota

Cedar Pass, Interior, S. D.—One of the largest fossils ever taken from the Bad Lands is being removed by a party headed by Dr. Ira Edwards, Milwaukee, Wis., who has been excavating and exploring near here for two months.

Doctor Edwards has been working for some time on the bones of the brontotherium, known as the thunder beast. He made the discovery some time ago and, due to the way the bones were buried, he has decided to excavate the entire skeleton.

The brontotherium, according to Doctor Edwards, is named because of the noise it made while walking. It was a huge beast. The skull measures 30 inches across the eye sockets and 42 inches from the tip of the nose. Doctor Edwards said it belonged to an animal 10 feet high and 20 feet long.

The actual work of excavating the fossil is a gigantic task. As soon as the bones are exposed they have to be covered with a coating of shellac, wrapped in rice paper and burlap and plastered. This is to prevent their decomposition from exposure to the air.

Portrait, Sold for $15, Is Valued at $200,000

The Hague—The Rembrandt portrait of Marten Looten, friend of the Dutch master, which was sold some years ago by the Looten family for $15 in the belief that it was merely a copy, has been discovered by Doctor Kat, an art expert at Amsterdam, to be an original and is valued at $200,000. Doctor Kat says he has deciphered an inscription on the painting, written by Rembrandt himself, expressing appreciation of Looten's friendship.

Mastodon's Tusk Found on Texas River Bank

Bronte, Texas.—Projecting from the bank of the Colorado river, three miles southeast of here, is a horn-shaped object geologists have identified as a mastodon's tusk. The specimen is 4 1/2 feet long, curved, and 8 inches in diameter at the larger end. The relic of the Pleistocene age has been covered with canvas pending a decision by San Angelo geologists whether to salvage the fossil.

"Fagin" Are Still Active in London

London.—Like Fagin, whom Dickens described in Oliver Twist, thief-trainers still keep their academies for young pickpockets in the slums here.

There is a family of seven children in one of the squalid dwellings here, all known to be in careful training for some department of crime.

The perfection of skill they are required to develop is astonishing. If a child is not able to pick his father's pocket or a handkerchief successfully before he is four, he is cursed.

The Fagins of today, however, concentrate more on car stealing, smash and grab raids and burglary than on such small endeavor as pocket picking.

Not Worth the Cost

The bureau of mines says that many processes have been proposed for extracting gold from water, but some have proved commercially profitable. The usual solvent for gold is aqua regia, a mixture of hydrochloric acid and nitric acid diluted in water.

Cow Venerated

Two thousand years before Christ the moon was identified in Egypt as the cow-headed goddess, Hathor, with the moon between her horns. Hathor watched the fertility of the fields. The Nile was likened to a cow. Its fertilizing waters were likened to milk. Yearly at the beginning of the river's rise, the cow was paraded at the festival of Osiris.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Mitchell's Peak Highest

Mount Washington, in New Hampshire, probably the most famous of the peaks of the Appalachians, because of the attention which has been given it by mountain climbers, stands second among the peaks of the 1,300-mile range of mountains. Mitchell's peak in North Carolina, which is 6,895 feet high, is nearly 400 feet higher than Mount Washington.

Cotton Not a Success

Sea-island cotton was formerly grown on the islands along the eastern coast of South Carolina and Georgia. It had to be abandoned there because of the ravages of the boll weevil and is now confined to the drier islands of the West Indies, where it was reintroduced from the United States. A little cotton of this type is grown experimentally at Yuma, Ariz.

ROOSEVELT PRATTLES ON

The fallacies of the Roosevelt theories were thoroughly exposed and explained by President Hoover last Friday in his address at Indianapolis when the President reaffirmed his position on important problems facing the nation, and none who heard him but was impressed by his sincerity and his keen grasp of public affairs. He devoted a large part of his address to the tariff question, and stated again that he stood squarely behind a protective tariff which protected the American workman and American industry.

The President called attention to the fact that within two weeks of the election Candidate Roosevelt has stated that he does not propose to reduce tariffs on farm products. This stand has been taken by the Democratic candidate after both he and his fellow campaign orators have been harping on the idea that they claimed followed in the path of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill. The natural presumption is that Candidate Roosevelt's change of mind is due to his desire to annex the farm vote of the middle west.

More and more as the campaign develops one is reminded of the sound common sense of the utterances of the President and of the foolish prattlings of Candidate Roosevelt. New York state has had an example of the Roosevelt policy. In his campaign speeches the governor has been emphasizing that the Hoover administration should have foreseen the depression, and that steps should have been taken to meet it as long ago as in 1929. But in 1931 Governor Roosevelt drew up and forced through the biggest budget the taxpayers of the state of New York were ever called upon to finance.

Just an example of the Rooseveltian theory and of his actual performance.

Candidate Roosevelt is prattling about economy but his record as governor of the state plainly shows that he knows little and cares less of the financial affairs of the taxpayers of the Empire State. What the taxpayer may expect in the way of federal retrenchment in expenses if Roosevelt by any chance should be elected is clearly indicated by his record as governor of the state.

Never has there been a Presidential candidate who was more artful than he in dodging important decisions. His stand on the bonus question, to put it mildly was one of pure sidestepping. He is trying to be all things to all men with but one aim in view. Fortunately the voters have had the opportunity of hearing both President Hoover and Candidate Roosevelt and it is up to them whether they desire to retain in office a man who has proven himself capable of carrying on the affairs of the nation, or to turn them over to a man who must be known for his foolish prattling.

THE JUDICIARY

An unbiased judiciary is one of the safeguards of American liberty that was conceived by the patriots who framed the Constitution of the United States. The same plan has been adopted by the states in making their constitutions. Americans rightfully resent imputations of unfairness in the American judicial system, whether the slurs are slung by Candidate Roosevelt or anyone else. A just and able judge should be retained upon the bench, and the history of the judiciary shows that in most cases the people retain such judges in their service as long as possible.

It is gratifying that public sentiment demanded the nomination of Judge Cuthbert W. Pound for chief justice of the court of appeals of New York State. He has served the people faithfully. He has been on the bench of appeals bench for seventeen years. Before that he was a justice of the Supreme court for nine years. For more than a quarter of a century he has been interpreting the law of the Empire State so that justice might be measured evenly between man and man. His nomination by the Republican party, followed by similar action by the Democratic party, and by smaller organizations, will result in retaining a just judge in office.

Similarly, it is gratifying to Flater county to have public recognition of the services that have been rendered for nearly twelve years by Surrogate George F. Kaufman, whose re-nomination by the Republican party followed by his nomination by the Democratic county convention and the enrolled voters of both parties in the primary will result in a continuance of the probate court upon the same high plane that naturally would be expected under Surrogate Kaufman.

The public demand that the judiciary shall be kept out of politics was ignored, however, when a justice of the Supreme court was to be nominated. The Republican party unanimously renominated Justice Harold J. Hinman of Albany. His service of fourteen years has not been spectacular. During practically all of that period he has served on the Appellate Division of the Third Judicial Department of the state. It is that court which passes first upon appeals. There the judges decide whether an error has been made in the trial courts in determining justice between man and man, whether the trial judge has erred in his interpretation of the law or whether a jury has been swayed by bias in deciding a case.

The work of Justice Hinman on the Supreme court bench before he was assigned to the less spectacular work of the Appellate Division has won the admiration and loyal support of lawyers throughout the district. The judges who served with him took an active part in his re-nomination because they realized the value of his services to the state and to every citizen who may be called upon to invoke the aid of the courts in securing justice. Judge Hinman has proved himself able and fearless. His record compares favorably with that of the most eminent jurists that the United States has produced. His continuance on the Supreme court bench will be an assurance to judges everywhere that honest and able public service is appreciated.

 AVOID NEED OF MENTAL TREATMENT

The difference between a patient inside the mental hospital and the individual outside is that the one inside cannot get along with his fellow man, cannot fit into the ordinary scheme of life to make a living, and the one outside can.

Sometimes we meet cases outside who seem just a little queer or "unusual" in their behavior and we wonder just what whether they will continue to remain outside the mental hospital for any length of time.

One of these types of cases is known as that of "rigid personality". Dr. Wendell Muncie says that the study of any mental patient becomes a study of his personality.

The rigid personality is made up of many factors such as obstinacy, aggressiveness, pride, sensitiveness, a rigid code of personal ethics or morals, an inability to make concessions (give and take), a hundred per cent attitude on every subject, and so forth.

Now as you and I look at the above we may wish at times that we were a little more obstinate or firm about some things; that we were a little more aggressive instead of standing back and letting some one else do certain work; that we had perhaps a little more pride or dignity at times; that we did not agree with other people so easily or so readily; that we took a hundred per cent stand instead of straddling the fence in our opinions.

Dr. Muncie points out that in general these qualities are valuable; these very qualities may achieve considerable success.

However, these same qualities are like a "two-edged sword", and many of the difficulties that beset the patient and make it hard for him to be really happy and able to get along well with other people are directly due to these severe or rigid qualities.

It is to prevent the rigid personality that teachers and parents try now to have the youngsters take part in all the affairs of life in school, in the home, and outdoors. A youngster will learn to seek his rights, but not to demand more than his rights. He will learn to undergo just criticism without feeling too deeply hurt. In other words he will not live within himself too much, but will learn to live with and for others.

The American Legion Auxiliary is cooperating with the Red Cross and other women's organizations in the making of garments for the needy. The material which is to be cut, sewed and made into garments is furnished by the Red Cross, and the work is being done in the rooms above the uptown post office.

The Auxiliary has been assigned Wednesday as the day on which to work. Many members have already volunteered their services and it is earnestly requested that as many ladies as are able will be present Wednesday to assist in this very necessary charitable work of cutting and sewing these articles of clothing, which will be distributed to those in need. Mrs. T. J. Hickey is chairman in charge of this work for the Legion Auxiliary. The following ladies were at the Red Cross work room, entered in this work last Wednesday morning and afternoon: Mrs. Herman DuBois, Mrs. Stanley Matthews, Mrs. W. H. McNamee, Mrs. C. Voight, Mrs. R. Earl Haley, Mrs. Nathan Roe and Mrs. Giles.

SOUTH RONDOUT

South Rondout, Oct. 31.—The Junior Epworth League of the M. E. Church will hold a Halloween party in the Sunday School room this evening with the following committee in charge: Decorations, William Windram, chairman; Kenneth Becker, Charles Webster, Wallace Becker, Oscar LeFevre, refreshments, Lucille Bicker, Doris Wilson, Julia Menden, Doris Wilson, social, Barbara LeFevre, Anita Stengel, Helen Rice, Violet Barnett. The party will commence at 8 o'clock and a good time is anticipated by all.

A number of pupils attending the Kingston High School are among the house students.

The glorious fall weather of Sunday brought good many motorists from out of town, visiting friends in the village.

Residents having graves or plots in the Riverside Cemetery are urged to attend the annual meeting to be held in Pythian Hall, Port Jervis, on Saturday, November 5, at 2 p. m. The frost Sunday night made a pretty scene with the buildings and grounds white, early this morning.

Ten Breuckh Duffy Brained.
 Charles Ten Breuckh was severely bruised about his entire body Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile and thrown several feet to the sidewalk. The accident happened at the corner of John street and Clinton avenue. Mr. Ten Breuckh was stepping up on the curb when he was struck by the car, which was being driven close to the curb to avoid striking another car which was turning around.

A PATH TO PARADISE

by Connelly DAWSON

"The past two hours. Don't wait dinner. Get a business conference."

"It won't do, Dicky," she spoke firmly. "This is my first night back."

"Too bad, darling. The conference is about those mice. And it's too late, too; I have to sleep on a train for I'm due in St. Paul to-morrow."

"For another conference?"

"You're becoming quite a cute little guesser."

"I don't believe a word of it, Dicky. For some reason you're afraid of me."

"For heaven's sake! He yawned so that she heard him. 'This is your chance as much as mine. If the deal goes through, we'll be in closer.'"

"Then I wish you luck, if I don't see you again."

"But you will." His tone became anxious. "I have to fetch my suitcase. If you're a kind little wife, you'll have it packed."

She made her toilet with special care, choosing the high-waisted Venetian gown with the billowy skirt, which he'd loved when he was courting. Between tears and temper she flung his travelling kit into his suitcase. Dinnerless and wounded she sat down to wait for him.

Hours slipped by. Seven. Eight. Nine. There would be no time to deliver her ultimatum. To start a discussion with a husband in a hurry would be useless.

Her reading of his character became clear and yet more clear. From that third night of the honeymoon when he'd called her Lou-Lou, she'd been continually stumbling on discoveries. Most of them she'd refused to admit till now. They had come to her in fragments. She pieced them together like a Chinese puzzle. At last she had no doubt that she knew all about him.

His key in the latch. She snatched a book. He entered briskly, humming.

From the hall he called to her. "Get my suitcase ready?"

"In the bedroom."

"He heard him go in search of it—then his footsteps returning."

"Well, I'm off, darling."

"That's good."

"Not sorry, I hope."

"You're an optimist."

"Blame my soul, I hadn't noticed. You're all dolled up. Why the magnificence?"

"O, trot along."

She turned a page. He approached and stood over her. "Expecting someone?"

There was one name with which she could always annoy him. "Joking aside," she glanced up, "to whom did you lend my coat? To Lou-Lou?"

"Been snooping! So that's how you've spent the afternoon?"

"I'll hand it to you, Dicky, when you place your affections, you're tremendously loyal."

"You're right." He twiddled his moustache—a sure sign that he was confused. "I hate to gull on anybody. The poor kid was down and out. I used to be her pal. Of course when I married you—So in a sense I felt responsible. Surely you don't blame me?"

"Blame you, for playing the good Samaritan?" She opened her eyes charmingly wide.

"I wish I didn't have to go." He perched himself on the arm of her chair. "You strike me as queer, Santa—too darned polite. What are you planning about the twenty thousand?"

"Oh, that! You really must go, Dicky. Look at the time. I'll give you my answer later."

"That's not very satisfactory. These fellows I'm to meet will expect me to be definite."

He hovered uncertainly; then he slipped his suitcase. She accompanied him to the hall and submitted to his embrace.

The moment he was gone, she slipped the chain in place. She might have forgiven him had he the right before anyone but Lou-Lou.

Next morning she removed all her belongings to storage. She was scrupulously honest, leaving him his share of the wedding presents and the bed, which had been his solitary contribution to the furnishings.

To the pillow she pinned a note referring him to her lawyer.

Her final act in the ritual of departure was to tip-toe through the empty rooms. She'd promised him his answer: here it was with no word spoken. She pictured the surprise of his homecoming.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—

THE SPONGE HAS THOUSANDS OF STOMACHS...

GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER—Bachelor of Science, Master of Science and Research Director of Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

WAS ONCE TRADED FOR A BROKEN DOWN RACE HORSE!

Stolen when a small child from his owners, a nameless negro slave who later adopted the name of George Washington Carver and became one of the world's leading living scientists, was ransomed from his captors with a broken down racehorse, valued at about $300. Dr. Carver's work in reclaiming waste products from the farm, his methods in efficient farming, and commercial chemical achievements particularly in the field of dress, have brought to light the vast potential wealth on "valueless" farm lands.

Dr. Carver was ransomed by his owners after he and his mother were kidnapped. His mother was never returned. The nameless negro slave took the surname of his owners, and the given name of George Washington. He worked his way through school, earning his degree at the Iowa State College. Then he returned to the south to begin his work at the Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Ala. Chief among his many accomplishments is his work in making more than 300 useful products from peanuts and sweet potatoes—among them foodstuffs, building materials, cosmetics, paints, lubricants and ink.

On one of the ancient Roman ships recently recovered from Lake Nemi in Italy, Emperor Caligula gave his famous party that resulted in death for all his guests. Caligula, whose reign in later years was marked by cruelties, ordered seacocks in the palatial floats opened at the height of one of his extravagant parties on board. He fled in a waiting boat, leaving his guests to drown.

The Dramatic Life Story OF COLONEL "Fighting Bill" DONOVAN

Donovan Responds to Washington Call; Acts While Awaiting Senate Approval

Probes Charges of Prison Craft Three Months Before His Confirmation.

Colonel Donovan in Characteristic Pose Before Jury

THOSE who watched William J. Donovan's career as Federal District Attorney for the Buffalo area were not surprised when Attorney General Harlan F. Stone asked for the "most able and hardest working attorney," that the answer from all sides was "Colonel Donovan."

When the summons to Washington came, Donovan, as usual, responded. There was an element of satisfaction in becoming one of the important assistants to one under whom he had studied law at Columbia. Stone had been dean of the Law School. Stone appointed his former pupil in August, 1924, while the Senate was recessed. In that the new appointee was to occupy an executive post, having been put in charge of the criminal division of the Department of Justice, it was required that the appointment be submitted to that body by President Coolidge. Donovan's name was to come up for confirmation in March.

SPEEDS ACTION

Another man, under similar conditions, might have "pussyfooted" until his appointment was confirmed. Donovan, however, refused to stay inactive, and three months before his name was to come up in the Senate, he was in Atlanta, Georgia, probing charges of graft and favoritism in the Federal prison.

Attorney General Stone had asked the warden to resign. The warden announced that his resignation had been requested on the grounds that he had been too lenient with bootlegger prisoners. The Atlanta warden promised that the investigation which Donovan had come down to conduct would prove the truth of his claim.

It was charged that one of the warden's deputies solicited and accepted bribes from prisoners. This deputy was also charged with receiving bribes of $2,500 from two notorious New York bootleggers, for giving them soft jobs while serving their prison term. It was further alleged that a woman had paid this prison official an additional $5,000 in behalf of the pair. The warden was charged with receiving $5,000 from a convicted member of the Savannah rum ring, and $5,000 from another convict who was to get the soft, unprison-like berth of chauffeur to the prison physician. The warden and his deputy proclaimed that they were victims of a frame-up. Influential persons sought to get investigator Donovan's ear in their behalf, but he paid attention only to the work before him. Donovan, in fact, did not intend to spend too much time on the probe. It seemed to him that where such bribes were being paid—assuming that they actually were—one need not have too much trouble proving it.

EXPERIENCE HELPS

He began his investigation by causing a number of the penitentiary inmates to be sequestered in another jail. A dozen of them who, he believed, might be of aid, including the alleged bribe-givers, were taken from Atlanta and placed in the Atlanta, Georgia, jail, for "isolation" purposes, as he put it.

Donovan's experience with threats and intimidation of witnesses as Buffalo's Federal prosecutor now served him well. The situation required a man of his experience with the gangs of Western New York and this was apparently recognized by the Atlanta District Attorney. That official had suspected for more than a year that all was not well at the big Federal jail but found himself unable to make headway against the intricate underground machine that controlled matters in and about the penitentiary.

Donovan arrived in Atlanta on the noon train on December 17. He refused to discuss the case with the local Federal officials and at 3 o'clock that afternoon he was examined witnesses. He got rid of the possible leaders among the inmates by having them transferred to the Athens jail and dug into the memories of some of the others.

HOT ON TRAIL

By this time Donovan had appraised the local officials of the situation and they were so pleased with the progress made that they were for calling it a day and doing appropriate honors to the guest from Washington. But Colonel Donovan demurred. There were the hours of the night which, according to the Federal law under which he was operating, were not sacred to the rest of tired or jubilant officials. Besides, he was hot on the trail. Witnesses after witnesses were examined that first night in Atlanta. At last he had a connected, riveted story that could be presented before a grand jury.

The next morning the case was "sewed up." The grand jury went into session at 10 o'clock. Indictments were found and arrests followed. The warden and others were taken into custody.

Having provided the proof Donovan permitted the local officials to prosecute. He had left them a "sure-fire" case. The warden and his colleagues were sent to jail.

The next article deals with Colonel Donovan's clash with officials.

Hoover Wins Praise Of Mrs. A. B. Parker

Mrs. Allen B. Parker, widow of the Democratic Presidential nominee who was defeated in 1924 by Roosevelt, urged voters in a statement made public by the Republican National Committee to support President Hoover for re-election.

Mrs. Parker's statement was based on President Hoover's address made Friday evening at Indianapolis and was issued together with a number of other statements from persons prominent in politics, public life and business.

"All listeners to President Hoover's speech at Indianapolis must be impressed by its sincerity, clarity and informativeness, backed by his statement of recorded facts," Mrs. Parker said. "It should give to every voter the utmost confidence in this administration's constructive and protective measures during the world depression. It should imbue every citizen with the determination to help complete the bringing back of prosperity by re-electing Herbert Hoover as President of the United States."

THINK HUNTERS ARE VICTIMS OF "PHEASANT FEVER"

West Shokan, Oct. 31.—It seems that any object having the appearance of a cock pheasant causes a hunter this season to "see red" immediately. Perhaps it's the scarcity of the beautiful birds or maybe it's just "pheasant fever," similar to the "buck" variety. But anyway amusing incidents are frequently coming to light. Among the shooters afield on the first day were Pete Crawford, genial Olive Bridge garage man, with his boon companion, Oscar Dudley, veteran D. W. S. gate tender. Together they roamed over the broad back fields of Merritt Winchell's farm in search of the quarry sure to be in hiding somewhere. Eyes scanning every quarter and guns in readiness, they advanced, when lo and behold, on beyond the second knoll ahead, right in the wide and open vale stood his majesty "cock pheasant." Oscar urged caution, but Pete let out full stride with Oscar running a close second and arrived pattering at the brow of yonder hill, only a jump or two behind. Sure enough, Mr. Cock still stood there out ahead, alone and unafraid. They crept closed to the last low intervening knoll, as Oscar considered the distance still too great for an effort shot. But Pete, who toted a "Long Range Winner" and bubbling over with excitement, could withhold no longer and blazed away. King pheasant awayed as his plumage was raked by a swishing charge which also threw up the grass and dirt alongside. Surely he must have been shot through and through, as there was no further sign of even a convulsing flutter. But taking no chances the hunters were off again on a dead run with guns in readiness. When alas, arriving at close up to what had appeared in the distance as a golden plumed cock, was in reality but an autumn browned weed rustling in the wind.

WEST SHOKAN.
West Shokan, Oct. 31.—Due probably to reaction of the Halloween festival, the attendance at the Sunday school session was not as large as last Sunday's. The evening collection was $10.00. The offering for the "Oxford Christian Soldiers" and "More About Jesus." The lesson topic under discussion was "The Christian and Law Observance." The golden text was "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap"—Galatians 6:7. The final collection was $10.00. The final collection was $10.00. The final collection was $10.00.

The mountains have now passed their prettiest and the ground is covered with dried autumn leaves. It is becoming quite difficult to find autumn leaves for decorating purposes. When the sun peeps over the distant western hills in the afternoon, its rays frequently fall on the glass in the Pinnacle tower on Big Tonsie mountain which reflects a dazzling brilliancy.

All sympathize keenly in the misfortune of a former Olive resident, Jerry Van Kleeck, of Tabasco, who was seriously injured early last week by a fall while loading cordwood. Mr. Van Kleeck is an older brother of George Van Kleeck, well known Ramapo Heights blacksmith, and has many friends in this vicinity.

Another sorry happening in the big loss sustained by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Quirk of Leibhardt whose barn with its contents, also an ice house was burned early Sunday morning.

Latest report is that Judge Lester S. Davis's stuffed pheasant, although considerably ruffled after its first day's bombardment, again proved an irresistible target to gunners when placed among the weeds at a tempting distance from the Krumville road on Eph Krom's farm, where it was lambasted by almost every keen-eyed gunner passing that way. Although E. C. Burger, Esq., failed to get in a shot on the opening day's racket on the home town he improved his opportunity very emphatically at the Krumville set up racketed by Clyde and Raymond Davis.

It behooves automobile drivers and it seems not out of place to again remind that at this season over which wet leaves may be scattered, and makes the handling and driving of a car considerably more difficult. Skidding accidents on the road happen very suddenly and a driver needs be always alert.

A local death of two decades ago was that of Clark Personneus, which occurred early Sunday morning, October 27. Mr. Personneus's death was brought on from a fall from a dump wagon a year or so previous while working for the road building contractors. His funeral was held on the afternoon of Tuesday, October 29, in the West Shokan Baptist Church, of which he was a member.

This was the last funeral service held in the church before it was torn down and removed to its present location.

It is learned with keen regret that George Sherman of Kerhonkson, well known electrical contractor, was badly injured Thursday by a fall from a ladder while working on a broken line at Marbletown on the farm of Ira Palen. Mr. Sherman has done considerable work in this neighborhood during the past two years, and his obliging manner and honest endeavor to please is known to all with whom he did business.

Judge and Mrs. Fred L. Weldner, of North Main street, called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whittier, of "Tuck-away", one afternoon recently.

One of Chase Davis's frisky young cows, "Wildcat", ate too many apples on the first day the cows were turned in the apple orchard to feed, after the apples had been picked. Wildcat was not content with the sweet clover and a few partly rotten apples, but walked over to the Constable residence and ate the winter apples which Mrs. Conestable had stored on her front porch. Wildcat became very sick and weak, but is now able to pasture rather feebly with the other cows.

Donald Bishop and Miss Marian Davis of West Shokan Heights were callers at "Beane Bros" and "Bemlock Knoll", Shokan, on Saturday morning.

This locality has experienced considerable high winds of late. One day the chilling north wind sweeps like fury down the valley and the next the south wind comes rushing back. The wind and rainstorm which was reported covers in Kingston a few nights ago was a bit boisterous about here too, leveling corn stalks and the like.

Another week and election will be here. There is considerable pro and con being argued in regard to the campaign when residents gather mornings at mail time at the post office, and evenings at Judge Davis's comfortable store quarters. Ernie Conestable is staking his old red hen that Roosevelt and Lehman are sure winners, while former Peace Officer St. Clair Barnes offers equally attractive odds that it's Hoover and Deever.

Miss Bertha Morrill of Brown Station Heights well-known representative of the New York Life Insurance Company, accompanied by Mr. Elsworth of Port Jervis, were business callers in West Shokan Heights on Saturday afternoon. Miss Morrill is said to be meeting with marked success in her new occupation.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Weldner of Hickory Hill attended the big Republican rally Saturday evening in Kingston.

Mariam Davis and sister, Cornelia, of West Shokan Heights were pleasantly entertained Saturday afternoon at the home of the Misses Albert and Ruth Gordon of Brodhead.

Friends are sorry to learn that Mrs. Elizabeth Allen of Brodhead has been ill the past week. A shale bank has been opened on the property of Mrs. Ole Burger of West Shokan Heights from which trucks are hauling for the covering of the stone wall all made in the road for some distance along the approach to Mike Dwyer's hill.

On Monday afternoon the members of the West Shokan School enjoyed a Halloween party given by their teacher, Mrs. Edward G. West, of Allabon. Prizes were awarded to the pupils dressed in the funniest costume. A number of games furnished added attraction.

Mrs. Jane Bogart of Shokan Heights celebrated her 51st birthday on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carter with whom she resides. Mrs. Bogart is remarkably alert and active for one of her age. Her many friends extend congratulations to this lifelong respected resident and wish her more happy birthdays and continued good health.

Donald Bishop spent the week-end at his home here. District Deputy Jacob Rogers and Past Grand Ernest Schriener of Cat-kill Mountain Lodge, No. 487, were visitors at the Saturday evening session of Shokan I. O. O. F. Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bohart and family of Watson Hollow have moved nearer town into the Walden Davis residence near Erastus North's store. Ray Kolder reports seeing three deer one morning recently in the pines above the Sunhill bridge. This is the first appearance of big game reported locally.

When President Hoover spoke from his train at Youngstown, Ohio, this campaign, it was the first time a president had visited the city in 29 years.

A delicious cereal provides the "bulk" that is so important in overcoming constipation.

Tuts show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is twice as rich in iron as an equal weight of best liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. What a relief to enjoy an appetizing cereal instead of taking patent medicines.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red and green packages. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

GREYHOUND

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

Again the Dual Personality Gown

New York—Once November arrives, social calendars begin to be consulted, which usually results in one's rushing out to do something about a scheduled event which calls for something either rather dressy or distinctly so.

The convertible evening dress has arrived in the nick of time, but of course all evening gowns are not capable of dual roles. The practically inclined, which should include all of us, are taking very kindly to the type of dress which has possibilities of a dual existence, such as the dress with removable sleeves or with necklines that may be worn low or covered with something decorative.

The old-style guimp was put on first, the dress being added. But today one just as frequently puts on a frock, then adds some sort of arrangement that covers one's neck and shoulders. Capelets made of graduating loops of wide ribbon offer one such arrangement. Standards of spangled net or of star-studded velvet are another. Capelets of lace, maline, ribbon, fur, or a combination of any of these, are useful when one has occasion to make a formal gown serve a less formal mission.

While there is a deal of formality, and one may dress right up to the queen's taste if one chooses, there are also many very simple evening dresses, some innocent of any sort of trimming, others trimmed rather lavishly but simple in other details.

Line is everything in current fashions. True, the line varies, but it is important that your dress should be beautifully cut and fitted. When this is done, one can well afford economies in trimming and accessories.

The diagonal line continues to be chic and is chosen for velvet and some of the heavier crepes and other fabrics. Some designers hold to fullness and find agreeable ways of introducing it, in the skirts as well, of course, as in whatever sleeves there may be. Bodices, especially in the mid-section, are usually snugly fitted.

A Top-cape Substitutes For the Top-coat

Women have taken the cape into their wardrobes in many guises. The three-quarter length tweed cape was advanced as a spectator sports type early this season with one-piece dresses and matching cardigan. The ensemble of this type is good for motor-touring, for ship wear and for many ter length looks especially right.

Hand in Hand With Scarfs

The sketches above introduce the top-cape in connection with Christmas. The sketches have endless variations of not only smart but worth remembering.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

For evening wear, there are instances of glittering details in trimmings, with striking contrasts effected. A white rough crepe dress is an excellent example, with the upper bodice section embroidered in red sequins, which are not revealed until the little cape that ties on is removed.

A great deal of thought is given trimmings, especially ornaments such as belt buckles and clasps and ornaments that control high collars. Rhinestone buttons in graduated sizes are also recurrent.

Dresses that reflect the Chanel influence, in a shallow box-pleated peplum, with bows at the front, are seen, with black the favorite color, and glittering buttons the approved trimming.

Coppery metals called rosegold are highlighted.

Attention is given the dinner or Sunday-night type of costume, with contrasts accented, as for example, a chartreuse frock with brown velvet looped sleeves and a black crepe gown with a white crepe yoke with folds released to form sleeves. Black crepe dresses with set yokes treated with crepe appliques are other means of gaining variety.

Black dresses still lead, which should not be construed as meaning that colors are being neglected. On the contrary, reds and greens are becoming extremely important. The new bright blues are also well liked.

SHANDAKEN.

Shandaken, Oct. 31.—On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown gave a party to a few of their friends. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Butler. The event was also in honor of the birthday of C. E. Wood. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood entertained Mrs. Kleevald and daughter and Fritz Kohrt of Olivera and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Brown on Saturday evening.

A very pleasant social party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Yerry on Thursday evening. A very delicious repast was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James F. Ford and children, Robert and Edward, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Butler of Jersey City and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood of this place. Games

A RED-AND-GOLD GOWN

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild

Big handkerchief squares of bright Hapstick red with gold pattern are cleverly handled to make this gown; at back of the waist, the ends of the hip yoke and the bertha meet and tie together.

The suit with topcoat has become a popular fashion. The three-quarter length looks especially right.

Hand in Hand With Scarfs

The sketches above introduce the top-cape in connection with Christmas. The sketches have endless variations of not only smart but worth remembering.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

For evening wear, there are instances of glittering details in trimmings, with striking contrasts effected. A white rough crepe dress is an excellent example, with the upper bodice section embroidered in red sequins, which are not revealed until the little cape that ties on is removed.

A great deal of thought is given trimmings, especially ornaments such as belt buckles and clasps and ornaments that control high collars. Rhinestone buttons in graduated sizes are also recurrent.

Dresses that reflect the Chanel influence, in a shallow box-pleated peplum, with bows at the front, are seen, with black the favorite color, and glittering buttons the approved trimming.

Coppery metals called rosegold are highlighted.

Attention is given the dinner or Sunday-night type of costume, with contrasts accented, as for example, a chartreuse frock with brown velvet looped sleeves and a black crepe gown with a white crepe yoke with folds released to form sleeves. Black crepe dresses with set yokes treated with crepe appliques are other means of gaining variety.

Black dresses still lead, which should not be construed as meaning that colors are being neglected. On the contrary, reds and greens are becoming extremely important. The new bright blues are also well liked.

SHANDAKEN.

Shandaken, Oct. 31.—On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown gave a party to a few of their friends. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Butler. The event was also in honor of the birthday of C. E. Wood. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood entertained Mrs. Kleevald and daughter and Fritz Kohrt of Olivera and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Brown on Saturday evening.

A very pleasant social party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Yerry on Thursday evening. A very delicious repast was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James F. Ford and children, Robert and Edward, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Butler of Jersey City and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood of this place. Games

WEST SHOKAN HALLOWEEN SOCIAL BIG SUCCESS

West Shokan, Oct. 31.—The community Halloween social held Friday evening, October 28, in the basement of the West Shokan Community Church under the auspices of the Sunday school, was one of the most successful social events of the Halloween season.

The basement was elaborately decorated in a manner fitting to the occasion. In the center of the room stood a long table filled with colorful red and yellow autumn leaves. On either end was a glowing jack-o'-lantern, one having two faces, the north and the south wind, while the other had three faces, "three's a crowd."

The posts were trimmed with red maple branches and boughs of tag-alder. The tables, filled with fruit and vegetables of the beautiful golden harvest, at which the guests were served were placed on either side of the ornamental table. The background or north side of the church was decorated with yellow cornstalks with the husks pulled back showing the large ears of Doris Early Hoven golden dent. The yellow pumpkins were arranged among the cornstalks on the floor. Trains of tag-alder placed in the corners of the stairs made a cheery effect. Pine branches harmonized well with the branches of red and yellow autumn leaves which trimmed the windows. They jack-o'-lanterns were placed in the center of several of the window sills. The autumn decorations instilled in each one the true spirit of the occasion and showed that there was a considerable amount of time and energy spent.

Numbered among the prominent out of town guests present were Supervisor and Mrs. Pratt Boice of Lake Katrine, Mrs. Josephine Boice of Hurley, Mrs. Frank Kaniet of Lake Katrine, Mrs. George Terwilliger of Kingston, the Hon. James E. Boice of Karbonaham, all of whom are former residents of this locality. Accompanying Mr. Boice was Howard Humiston of Karbonaham, who is well and favorably known about the reservoir section. All expressed keen delight in the opportunity atforded to gather among neighbors, friends and schoolmates of other years. As a boy, Supervisor Boice, also his brother, Myron, were members of the Sunday school.

The serving of supper began promptly at 6 o'clock. The menu was as follows: Hot cream chicken on homemade biscuits, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots, cabbage salad, cranberries, celery, pickles, cake, coffee and fruit jello. The waitresses were Mrs. John Thompson, superintendent of the Sunday school, Miss Marion Davis, assistant superintendent, Miss Helen Thompson, secretary, Miss Marie Miller and the Misses Betty and Jane Snyder.

A number of popular songs followed the serving of the supper, with Marion Davis as organist. The first game which the children enjoyed was biting an apple which was suspended on a long string. At one time fully a dozen apples were swinging. The adults then took part in a peanut-carrying contest. The popular participants were Mrs. Pratt Boice, Mrs. Charles H. Waldner, Mrs. Clayton Burgher, Mrs. Arthur Snyder and Mrs. George Burgher. Mrs. Waldner had the disposition of winning four prizes, a green sack.

The younger folks then tried their luck at the same game, in which Miss Helen Thompson was the winner.

The boys then gathered in the hall, talking and munching the crisp apples which they had previously won in the apple contest. The girls assembled in the cloak room and told hair-raising ghost stories. The grappings remained in the basement reawakening old time friendships and acquaintances.

Considering the number of church members that are being featured in the various communities round about, this was accorded a most surprising success. The amount cleared was $25.52 and will be used to defray expenses at the Christmas celebration. The members of the Sunday school wish to express their sincere appreciation to the residents of this community and the out of town guests who so liberally patronized, and also the members of the Ladies' Aid Society, who all helped to make this Halloween social such an outstanding social event.

Hunger March Head Arrested By Police

London, Nov. 1 (AP).—The police raided the headquarters of the National Unemployed Workers' Movement today and arrested W. A. L. Hamilton, organizer of the "Hunger Army's" march on London, which has precipitated two bloody riots within a week.

Hannington planned to defy tradition by leading a deputation on parliament tonight.

More than 70 persons were injured in a bloody melee in Hyde Park last Thursday, the day the national "Hunger Army" of 2,000 men trooped into London from all parts of the nation.

A dozen or so were injured Sunday when thousands of unemployed gathered in Trafalgar and made a dash for Buckingham Palace, the king's residence, and government buildings in Whitehall.

Twenty detectives raided Hannington's office and arrested him while he was talking to a reporter. The officers immediately took charge of the rooms where clerks and typists were preparing for tonight's demonstrations.

Hannington has long been known to police as a Communist. He had claimed responsibility for the naval mutiny at Inverclyde last year. He organized a similar march on London in 1930.

Catarrahal Deafness Can Be Relieved

Persons suffering from catarrahal deafness or head noises due to catarra will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected relief after other treatments have failed.

Blood Pressure Is Now Normal

"Never Felt Better In My Life," Kansas Woman Asserts.

If you are fat and have high blood pressure read this letter from Mrs. E. B. of Dodge City, Kansas—then use your own judgment—it was written January 1, 1932.

"The reason I am taking Kruschen Salts is: I was overweight, I naturally was sluggish in every way, I had high blood pressure and was so nervous I did not enjoy myself. I could not sleep and day after day I spent in bed with headaches. I had tried everything I ever heard of to remove fat from my body and nothing did me any good.

"I read so much in the papers about Kruschen Salts but to myself it was like all the rest, but I finally decided to try it. And Sept. 28, 1931 I started taking Kruschen and doing as you suggested. 'I have lost 50 lbs. and I am now healthy. I never felt better in all my life. I sleep fine and my blood pressure is normal. My nerves are also better. I have recommended Kruschen Salts to lots of people and I know several are taking them with good results.'

A jar of Kruschen Salts that costs but a little more than a week's pay can be obtained at McBride Drug Store or any drug store in the world.

Kingston: "Smilin' Through"
Here is the ultimate of Norma Shearer's ability. After a series of risqué, sophisticated roles, she comes back to the screen as the heroine of this well beloved and well remembered stage and picture play of yesterday. The story, a romantic love story with an old fashioned background, is filled with charm and entertainment. Never was Miss Shearer more lovable and capable, and never has she been surrounded by a success. Frederic March, Leslie Howard, and O. P. Heggie are a few of the talented players who support her in this, her finest screen performance. Special praise should be given Director Sidney Franklin, for the method in which this talkie was brought to the screen. One of the season's outstanding plays, recommended to everyone.

Orpheum: "The Purchase Price"
and "Ex-Bad Boy." Barbara Stanwyck supported by George Brent is the star of the first feature, with Robert Armstrong, Jean Arthur and Lola Lane all working hard in the second talkie offering, the story of a home town boy who made good despite an inferiority complex.

Broadway: "Billy Purl and His Wonder Show" on the Broadway stage, and Douglas Fairbanks in "Mr. Robinson Crusoe" on the screen. Billy Purl and his talented troupe returns to the Broadway Theatre with an entirely new show filled with comedy, dancing, laughter, and talent. A group of 30 artists complete the cast with Billy Purl headlining the bill as the International Fun Boy. "Mr. Robinson Crusoe" is the first play that Douglas Fairbanks has produced in some time, and it is up to the recognized Fairbanks standard. The local is a South Sea island, with Mr. Fairbanks marooned thereon. He gets there because of a bet in which he told friends that he could have all modern conveniences on the island within two months of his arrival there. What's more he makes good, and in his efforts to do so, this talkie is filled with an abundance of originality and comedy. His modern gadgets are constructed from the strangest materials, and he even has the wild life of the island help him in his schemes. And Maria Altea, a newcomer to the screen, proves to be a sensation as the native girl. Coupled with the Billy Purl Revue, this entertainment offering is one of exceptional merit, worth the patronage of everyone.

Sergeant—Is the man seriously wounded?
Patrolman—Well, two of the wounds are fatal, but the third doesn't amount to much.

"I want you men to show yourself into your work," said the new Brushville chief as they dashed madly to the scene of the fire.

Annabel, aged 5, was visiting her grandparents in another county. One evening after a rain her grandpa was showing her the rainbow.

Grandpa—Annabel, isn't that a pretty rainbow?
Annabel—Oh, yes, but grandpa, we have lots prettier ones over at Peiham.

Just remember this: The world will stand for a man who has been defeated, but never for a quitter.

Tombstone Dealer—How would just a simple "Gone Home" do for an inscription?
The Widow—I guess that will be all right. It was always the last place he ever thought of going.

We heard a bird bragging yesterday that he could remember when the girls wore busies and rans. Some of us are trying to forget those things.

Englishman had this poem placed on his tombstone: "Remember, men, as you pass by, so as you are once was I. So as I am you must be. Prepare to die and follow me." An Irishman passing by read the poem and added: "To follow you I am not content, until I know which place you went."

Ellnor—I'm trying to make up my mind about going to a wedding tomorrow.
Gertrude—Who's getting married?
Ellnor—I am.

Simple Remarks by a Simple Mind: Fame cannot be bought but notoriety is so cheap anybody can get it. ... Broadcating is no new thing. The village gossip has been at it for many years. ... A young fellow never is so worthless that some girl doesn't think he's "just wonderful."

... It is possible to have "fisherman's luck" and yet not go near the river. ... Some big business men are reputed to sign 60 letters to the minute, and many of the signatures look like "The most dangerous form of yellow fever isn't caused by mosquitoes at all, but by a head of golden blonde hair." ... Maybe the reason why it costs some women twice as much for beauty up-keep is because they're two-faced. ... Klasses have changed—the effects of the old-fashioned carns had to wear off—now they rub off. ... Pretty soft for the boy with an airplane. No matter where his girl friend goes, he can still pay her a flying visit. ... Holding your tongue is the first trick in holding a husband. ... Life may be one grand, sweet song, but the trouble is that the majority of us can't sing. ... More than one good cook has lost her meal ticket to a girl who fed him a little fatty. ... A girl's love may be easily killed, but no man has ever been able to smother it with kisses. ... As a rule, a real leader is one who can correct by guess which way the crowd will go.

Auntie (arriving on beach)—Well, my dears, looking for pretty shells?
Nephew—No, we're forgotten where we buried Uncle William.

Ephraim—Did the patent medicine you got for Aunt Maria cure her?
Jephtha—Heck, no! After she read the circular that came around the bottle she got four more things wrong with her.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 1 (P.)—A rather decided downward drift developed in an extremely sluggish stock market today.

Trading continued around the smallest volume in recent years, but in view of the paralysis of buying, scattered selling was enough to reduce prices by 1 to nearly 4 points in spots. The list recovered a little at times, but rallied to a little. Renewed heaviness of wheat was evidently a bearish factor in stocks.

Union Pacific sold off as much as 3 1/2 points, and extreme losses of about 1 appeared in American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Case, and Louisville and Nashville, although there was some recovery from the latter. Issues of 1 to 2 included Consolidated Gas, Dupont, New York Central, U. S. Steel, United Aircraft, and Westinghouse. Standard of New Jersey reacted nearly a point, then advanced. Socony Vacuum had a point in response to the dividend reduction. Oils as a whole, however, were fairly steady.

Preliminary estimates of last week's crude oil production indicated a substantial drop in the flow, as a result of curtailment in Texas and California. Estimates of the regular 25 cent dividend, and the usual extra of like amount, by Standard Oil, N. J., was a reassuring development, but had been anticipated. It was partly offset by a 1/2 point decline in a payment of 10 cents, against 20 cents three months ago. Earnings statements of the oil companies, however, continue to show small profits, in contrast to large deficits a year ago. Continental Oil Co. of Delaware reported net equal to 7 cents a share for the September quarter, in contrast to a deficit of $2,555,222 in the like period of 1931.

Most brokerage quarters thought the poor third quarter earnings reports had been largely discounted. Oils appeared to be the only major group showing marked improvement, although the complete third quarter reports of the railroads promise to show fair gains in spots. Even the utilities are showing some rather substantial recoveries in net. Consolidated Gas of New York reported third quarter net of only 27 cents a share, against 49 cents in the like period of 1931.

Selling of the rails appeared to be based on the belief that the seasonal upturn in the movement of freight had reached its peak in the week ended October 15. The last two months of the year normally see a considerable tapering off. Santa Fe, first of the larger trunklines to report for the week ended October 27, showed a decline of 2,376 cars from the period ended October 22.

Ordering of the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share by Chrysler late yesterday, while reporting a deficit of roughly $5,200,000 for the third quarter, strengthened the belief in Wall Street that General Motors would order its regular dividend of 25 cents at the same time. On September 27, the company had reported a deficit of $10,000,000, and the quarterly dividend had been roughly $10,000,000.

Local Death Record

Harold E. Benedict died suddenly at Tarrytown, N. J., on October 30. Funeral services were to be held today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bruce W. Angus, 135 Sunset Lane, Tarrytown, at 1 p. m. Interment to follow at Locust Cemetery, Warwick, N. Y.

Eugene Hook of Kerhonkson died at his home today aged 73 years. Surviving him are his wife and one brother, Samuel Hook, of Detroit, Mich. Funeral at the Kerhonkson M. E. Church on Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment in Kerhonkson.

Gerow Van Wyck died in Hudson, N. Y., October 30. Funeral services will be held from the late home, 11 Aiken avenue, at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday, November 2, and at 2 o'clock at the Reformed Church, Newburgh. Mr. Van Wyck was a former resident of Kingston, at which time he was district salesman for the Firestone Rubber Co.

The funeral of Michael McCullough, of East Kingston, who died in this city Thursday, was held from St. Mary's Church Saturday at 9:30 when a high mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Daniel Faust, pastor of St. John's Church at East Kingston. The children's choir sang the responses and at the conclusion of the mass sang "My God, My Father, While I Stray." Interment was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery where Father Faust gave the final absolution at the grave. Six nephews acted as casket bearers.

John O. Little of Highland died last night at his home, following a long illness. He is survived by his widow, Bertha Goodchild Little, three sons, John, Herbert and Ellis Little of Highland; five daughters, Mrs. Fred Black, Mrs. Raymond Scott, Mrs. Harold Scott of Highland, Mrs. John Baldwin of New York city, and Mrs. Libbey of Moberly, Missouri. Also surviving him is one brother, George Little, and two sisters, Mrs. Emily Terpening of Riffon and Mrs. Alex. Dusen of Dumont, N. J.; also 21 grandchildren and several nephews and nieces. The deceased was a member of the Red Men's Lodge, No. 468 of Exopus. Funeral services will be held at the Lloyd Methodist Episcopal Church on Thursday at 2:30 p. m. Burial will be in the Lloyd cemetery.

Mrs. Louise Farnham, wife of Charles Farnham of Washington avenue, Highland, died at a hospital in Syracuse Friday night. They spent the summer at their home in Perryville, where she was taken ill several weeks ago. She underwent an operation but was unable to rally. Most of her life has been spent in Highland. She was an active worker in the Presbyterian Church, member of the Choral Union, Christian Endeavor and Music Study Club. Funeral services were held this morning at 11 o'clock from her home in Washington avenue, with the Rev. Leonard D. Gelst, former minister of the Highland Presbyterian Church, in charge. Burial was in Highland cemetery. Bearers were R. Jay Deyo, Matthew Busch, Dr. Victor Salvatore, Griffin H. Mackey, Clarence Rathgeb and J. William Foster.

"Toboggan" Ride Figures in Religious Ceremony

There is not much difficulty in reaching Kulu, yet the place is so remote that few white folks have ever been there. Kulu lies high in the Himalayas, yet is visited yearly by thousands of Hindus, who go there to take part in the world's strangest religious ceremony.

From a cliff overhanging a terrific gorge extends a huge rope 2,500 feet long, strung at a very steep angle. The rope is fitted with a wooden saddle, and the pilgrim, climbing to the cliff top, takes his seat on this saddle, then hangs on and is attached to his legs, first to keep him in an upright position, secondly to increase his momentum. The word is given, and he starts on his terrific toboggan slide.

For the first few hundred yards the speed is so great that a stream of smoke follows in his wake, then as the slope grows less, so does the speed; yet, even so, the lower end of the rope is wound with rags to prevent the passenger's brains from being dashed out on the pole to which the rope is moored.

The idea is that the person who comes safely through this ordeal will have good luck for the next year—especially that his crops will flourish. No one knows how the ceremony started, but it has been going on for hundreds of years.

Scotch Breeders First to Develop Callows

The Calloway is one of the oldest, sturdiest and most individual of cattle breeds, originating in Scotland. It is so old in years that, aside from the generally admitted wild white cattle ancestry, little is known of the strains which formed its foundation. Some authorities say it is a polled strain of the West Highland breed. The name is derived from a district in southwest Scotland, where the first herds were developed. Present-day animals are mostly polled and of a black color, although among cattle in native haunts some loose horns occur, and some brownish or dun colors still appear.

White markings are common even on the underline. Due to wild white cattle blood. The hide is thick, but mellow, and is covered with a profusion of long, silky hair which has a mousy undertone. Calloway beef is considered of extra good quality, the flesh is marbled, much like Angus beef, and is well distributed over the frame. The breed was first introduced into North America about 1850 by farmers living close to Toronto. By a fire in 1851 much of early-day records and breed history were destroyed. The first separate breedbook was published by the Calloway Cattle society of Great Britain in 1873—Indianapolis News.

At sea level under average conditions, 1000 cubic feet of air weighs about 12 pounds, while 1000 cubic feet of hydrogen weighs only about 1 1/2 pounds. The lifting power of hydrogen under these conditions will therefore be about 75 pounds, but so it is difficult to get pure hydrogen, the actual lifting power is found to be only about 70 pounds to 1000 cubic feet.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Nov. 1.—The regular monthly meeting of the Shokan Volunteer Association will be held in the village hall on Monday evening, November 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett R. Kinney of the lower village have returned from an automobile trip to points in North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. George Geswin of Alwood were callers here last Sunday. Charles Vincent and family of Port Ewen were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Ryder of Ashokan.

Among those who attended the Republican rally in Kingston last Saturday evening were, Ira Kinsendorf and Elvira Winchell of Shokan, and Chester Lyons and Edwin Secor of Ashokan.

Charles and Marva Green have completed their new chicken house and have also added a truckload of White Leghorn pullets to their large flock of layers.

James Rutherford of the Tonche mountain section is cutting wood on one of Mrs. Elva Bogart's lots on the mountain. The Bogart farm of 400 acres contains a large portion of the hardwood timber remaining in the north reservoir country.

On Saturday evening, November 1, 1932, a large number of persons attended an oyster supper in the new hall at Samosville which was held for the benefit of the church at that place. A large picture of William J. Bryan which had been hung on the back screen of the stage attracted considerable attention and was the subject of numerous comments, as the occasion was only a few days before the national election.

Howard Brooks of this place has secured employment in Kingston. Mrs. E. C. Ross and son of Arlington called on friends here recently.

The following persons from New York city were week-end guests at the home of Mrs. Jane Stubbley: Mrs. and Mrs. George Sime, Mrs. Lily Martins and Mrs. Olive Brown. These ladies are daughters of Mrs. Stubbley.

Mrs. Jane Bogart, the oldest resident of the heights section, had the misfortune to sprain an ankle last week.

The city's roller and scraper are now being operated on the north boulevard between Shokan and Glenford.

Rob Hogan and family of Kingston were callers at the home of George and Mrs. Julia Hogan last Sunday. The partial remains of two deer were found on the city preserve near the site of the old village by Hattie Wager a few days ago. The deer had been shot and most of their carcasses removed by the poaching and law-defying hunters.

Mrs. Emma Holden has returned to her home in Jamaica, after spending several months at her bungalow on Van Stoenburgh hill.

Lester Lawrence is erecting a bungalow for his own use in the rear of his residence property in the east end of the village. The Lawrence house is now occupied by Mrs. W. Zimmerman and family, who removed here recently from Brown Station.

On November 1, 1932, the death took place of William C. Cashdollar, who lived on the lower Bushkill road on the west side of the Exopus creek. Mr. Cashdollar was the father of Alice, Mrs. and Cora C. Cashdollar. He was a member of the Shokan M. E. Church, having been received into the congregation in 1885.

Mrs. Sami Nadai, Mrs. C. A. Winchell and Miss Edna Longyear attended the Eastern Star play, "Are You a Mason?" in Kingston on Thursday evening, October 27.

Mrs. Rank, the popular teacher of the school at Brown Station, continues to add new pupils to her membership roll. Gertrude and Billy Osterhoudt, who until recently attended the Ashokan school, are the latest additions to Mrs. Rank's classes.

North Brothers, local building contractors, are erecting a chimney of field stone at the Oscar Gantner residence on the old state road.

Eddie Kenny, a former Shokan boy who now resides in Bergenfield, N. J., motored here last Sunday and called on some of his Shokan friends. Mr. Kenny was wearing his uniform of the Bergenfield fire department, an organization with which he has been connected for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Deas of Ashokan have returned from New York city and are again at their Lake View House in the lower village.

Anthony Arnold of Guilfordland is visiting at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Kinsendorf.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dibble of North Tarrytown are spending a vacation at their home on the west branch of the Butternutkill.

On Sunday, November 2, 1932, Miss Cora Winans presided at the new melodion of the Reformed Church at the regular morning services conducted by the Rev. Alonzo Peake, war time pastor of the Dutch Church here. Miss Winans later became the wife of Isaac Merrihew and for many years resided at Olive City. She was a grandmother of Russell Merrihew of the Merrihew Brothers' stage line, and also of Mrs. Arthur Wicks of Kingston.

William Windram of Kingston was a caller in the village last Friday. Mr. Windram came here to look after the effects of his brother, the late David L. Windram, who died recently.

Edward Loyler is employed at the Raymond Pitcairn place on Tonche mountain. "Ed" having harvested the major part of his bumper crop, which included practically every vegetable grown in these parts, now feels free to step out and pick up a little of that coin of the realm.

Lewis Thiel, the genial high street poultryman, has been engaged in storing away his big yield of corn. "Lew" tells of one of these monster birds that measured 27 inches in length. These roots make first rate feed for chickens. Mr. Thiel says, and being this-estimated they do not have to be chopped up.

Tracy Alexander, who is employed in Columbia county, is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander, at their home on the Tonche road. While here, Tracy is improving the time by picking apples on the place which was formerly known as the Warren homestead.

Henry Schipp, a member of the local troop of Boy Scouts, is confined to his home in Ashokan by illness.

Burtie Cuddey of Pine Hill was the guest of his cousin, John Adair, on Monday.

On November 1, 1932, local Democrats raised a hickory pole at the house of Henry K. Merrihew in Olive City. Mr. Merrihew was a prominent member of the party here and held town office for many years. On the 2nd, the election was held at Andrew Hill's place in Shokan. The usual old time majorities were returned at this poll for the successful Democratic candidates, including Franklin Pierce for president; Horatio Seymour for governor, and T. R. Westbrook for member of Congress.

The Halloween party given in the Reformed Church hall on Friday evening, October 28, was attended by about 70 persons. The first feature of the entertainment part of the affair was a burlesque pantomime entitled "Polyphantas," enacted by the following people: Miss Verna Giles, Miss Barbara Tackling, John and Robert Lawson, Irving Weeks, William Tackling, Alfred and Morris Rose and John Adair. Mrs. August Pfau, wife of the pastor of the church, read the pantomime. Several humorous skits also were given by the young folks of the Sunday school. Following this program a supper was served, consisting of sandwiches, potato salad, cake and doughnuts, cheese, coffee and tea. Games for the children, supervised by Miss Edna Longyear, and cards for the adults present, concluded the evening's fun. A collection, amounting to ten dollars, was taken up for the benefit of the Sunday school.

Miss Elizabeth Giles is spending some time in Poughkeepsie as the guest of her sister, Mrs. William Wardell, of that city.

Sylvester Wells, local firewood dealer, is cutting wood on his old home place near Samosville in the town of Rochester. "Ves" draws the wood over here on his truck for delivery to his customers in the twin villages.

The pupils of the Shokan public school were given a costume Halloween party at the schoolhouse on Monday afternoon, October 31, by their teacher, Mrs. E. C. Burgher. The children played games in which prizes were awarded, and refreshments of frankfurters and rolls and doughnuts and cider were served.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Cornwall Longyear, who left here last month for their new home in Albuquerque, New Mexico, are glad to learn that the Longyears arrived at their destination safely and are greatly pleased with that part of the southwest. Mr. and Mrs. Longyear write that a snowstorm was in progress at the time of their arrival in Albuquerque.

A local marriage of November 1, 1932, was that of John H. Hermance to Emma Winchell, both of Bedford. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John H. Fyfe, pastor of the Shokan M. E. Church and the witnesses to the nuptials were Mrs. J. Fyfe and A. Winchell, both of Shokan.

There are 353 registered voters in the first election district of Olive this fall, about 30 fewer than were on the books last year.

Very little fishing is being done along the north shore of the reservoir at this time. A few of the local sportsmen have taken good catches of perch and bluefish in the coves but the interest in fishing appears to have waned with the close of the trout season and the opening of the annual hunting season. As for game, all of the boys report a scarcity of gray squirrels, with practically nothing on the wing except crows. Rabbits also appear to have taken to their holes pending the return of prosperity, and deer especially have been conspicuous by their absence from the usual haunts.

First-Aid Kit

An authority recommends these articles to be included in a household first-aid kit: A two-ounce bottle of aromatic spirits of ammonia (with rubber cork); two small packages of aseptic gauze; one-half pound absorbent cotton; six roller bandages (three large and three small); six iodine swabs; one tube carbolic vaseline or petrolatum; two ounces witchhazel; one tin talcum powder; ordinary safety pins; scissors; two drams olive oil; four ounces epsom salts; two ounces hair water; two ounces powdered mustard; glass and spoon; camellia hair brush; 2 per cent solution of mercurchrome as alternative for iodine.

Stevenson's Prayer

Robert Louis Stevenson's prayer, which appears on the memorial to him in St. Giles church, Edinburgh, is as follows: "Give us grace and strength to persevere. Give us courage and gaiety and the quiet mind. Spare to us our enemies. Bless us if it may be, in all our innocent endeavors. If it may not, give us the strength to encounter that which is to come, that we may be brave in peril, constant in tribulation, temperate in wrath, and in all changes of fortune, and down to the gates of death, loyal and loving to one another."

Daddy Longlegs

The name "daddy longlegs" refers to an arachnid of the order Phalangida, more correctly called harvestman. A member of this group of invertebrates superficially resembles the true spider, but has a small rounded body composed of 22 indistinctly jointed cephalothorax to which the broad short abdomen, consisting of six segments, is joined. Most of the forms have very long slender legs, eight in number, and are popularly called daddy longlegs. They feed on small insects, do not spin webs, and are perfectly harmless.

Society Notes

Archie Huestis, Jr., of 53 Lucas avenue and Miss Roslyn Schellbiski of 61 Wrentham street, were united in marriage on October 30, by the Rev. Frank H. Neal of St. James M. E. Church. They were attended by Ernest Rowe and Anna M. Rowe.

D. A. R. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Whittier Chapter, D. A. R., will be held in the chapter house on Thursday, November 3, at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Robert Hamilton Gibbs, state regent, will be the guest speaker. A large attendance is desired. The local board will meet at 2 p. m.

James Carlson

Merrill J. Jones of 176 Wilbur avenue and Miss Hazel M. Carlson of 155 Murray street, were married on October 30, by the Rev. O. E. Brandt of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. They were attended by Miss Della V. Cramer and James L. Carlson.

Double Celebration

On Saturday evening, October 29, a double celebration was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ambrose of Washington avenue, the occasion being the birthday of both Mr. Ambrose and his little daughter, Margine, as well as the forty-fourth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Vanderleith, their former neighbors in Riffon. After several hours of social entertainment the hostess served a very dainty repast which was thoroughly enjoyed by all those present and at an early hour the guests departed wishing Mr. Ambrose and little Margine as well as the "bride and groom" many happy returns of the day.

A Halloween Party

A very delightful time at a Halloween party was given by Miss Alice Strubel at her home, 93 Ten Brock avenue, Sunday evening. The decorations of orange and black were very pretty. At midnight a bountiful luncheon was served and in the wee hours of the morning the guests departed for their homes complimenting Alice on her royal entertainment. Those present were Ann Strubel, Ethel Bowers, Bee Gehrt, Jane Phinney, Alice Strubel, Peggy Larkin, Flo Bowers, Miriam Phinney, Bill Zatis, Jim Kleth, Eddie Forger, Eric Shellenberger, Chet Klefer, Charlie Sam, Tommy Cole, Ray Demski, George Bowers, Mrs. J. Bowers and Mr. and Mrs. J. Strubel.

Halloween Party

A very delightful Halloween party was held Monday evening at the home of the Misses Lila and Bessie Herrick. Covers were laid for 20. At 12 o'clock all guests were ushered into the dining room where a bounteous dinner was served. The color scheme was black and orange. The following were present: Lillian Vaughn, Bernice Daniels, Marion Schwenk, Isabel Malone, June Myers, Ruth Keith, Frances Pelham, Virginia Countryman, Sadie Auchmoody, Bessie Herrick, Lila Herrick, Walter Hahn, George Kent, Willard Berryman, Donald Hyatt, Abraham Novig, Gilbert Straw, Thomas W. Miller, Albert Pelham and Chester Barth.

Scout

On Monday afternoon the members of Sorosis met at the home of Mrs. Darrow. During the business session, Mrs. Lasher, chairman of the legislative committee, presented the amendments which will come up to be voted upon at the coming election. This club added an assistant secretary to its corps of officers in the person of Mrs. Doty. One new member was received into the club, Mrs. Louis Kiegl. Announcement was made that club members, who were requested to dress in Colonial costume, would be called for next Monday evening and taken to the bi-centennial banquet, but the place of holding the banquet remained a profound secret. The paper for the afternoon on "Nationalism—Imperialism" was ably presented by Mrs. Brown.

Halloween Play

A group of boys and girls of No. 6 School gave a Halloween play at the school Monday afternoon. Many of the parents came in to see the play. The cast of Brownies showed in a very pleasing way, how Halloween can be enjoyed in the spirit of helpfulness instead of destructiveness. The following took part in the play: Anthony Berinato, John Bonas, Norman Brienstein, Clayton Bower, Fred Christiansa, Edward Chambers, Arthur Deyo, Joseph Datto, John Ennis, Robert Jones, Lloyd Newcombe, Paul Nosovich, Harold Quick, Jack Thomas, Elizabeth Britt, Marie Britt, Anna Brown, Kathleen Crosby, Eleanor Frugal, Anna Helms, Dorothy Lawson, Mary Letitia, Marion McNaught, Genevieve Monteleone, Helen Reese, Gloria Rugro, Frances Stout, Delores Turk, and Evelyn Wright.

A Surprise Party

A surprise party in honor of Mrs. C. Anderson was given at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Bernard, 41 Delaware avenue. The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion which proved a very enjoyable one to all present. At 12 o'clock a bountiful supper was served. Those at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anderson and family of Schenectady; Mrs. Charles Anderson, Jr., of New York; Edward Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. John Bernard, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leininger, Miss Jeanette

Plain Facts for you Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer

For the past two years President Hoover has urged upon Congress the necessity of a reduction in the cost of governmental operations. In response to a demand on the part of the Democratic House of Representatives for specific recommendations as to how to cut costs the President presented a definite and detailed plan for cutting $300,000,000 a year out of the routine expenditures of the government.

The Democratic House of Representatives refused to accept the recommendations and plans of the President and passed a bill that took only $40,000,000 out of the cost of the routine operations of the government. Republican leadership in the Senate refused to accept such a meager saving and after months of effort secured a compromise that took $150,000,000 a year out of government expenditures.

President Hoover has repeatedly urged upon Congress the enactment of legislation that would permit him to reorganize and consolidate, when practical, the administrative departments and bureaus of the government in order to reduce government expenditures.

The Democratic House of Representatives, under the leadership of the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, has repeatedly refused to enact such legislation, but instead has passed bills appropriating over four billions of dollars for additional expenditures that were either stopped by the Republican Senate or vetoed by the President.

Under the last three Republican administrations the government debt was reduced to the extent of $9,300,000,000, saving in annual interest charges $450,000,000.

What of the Other Side?

The keynote of Governor Roosevelt's campaign has been generalities on the subject of reduced governmental expenditures, state and national. That also was the keynote of his campaign for Governor of New York in 1898. He says government expenditures should be reduced by at least 25 per cent, but offers no details as to how this is to be done, and infers that if elected President he will see to it that state, county and municipal taxes will also be reduced, which no intelligent voter takes seriously, knowing the President has no possible control over any expenditure of a state, county or municipality.

But what of Mr. Roosevelt's record of expenditures as Governor of New York where the budget has been entirely in his hands?

The graphs tell the story. They show a comparison, year by year, for the past ten years.

They show that Governor Roosevelt spent in 1931 $194,981,184.67 more than Governor Miller, a Republican, spent in 1922

—they show that Governor Roosevelt spent in 1931 $95,497,193.81 more than Governor Smith spent in 1928;

—they show that in the three years of his administration of the state of New York he spent $274,650,708.26 more than was spent during the last three years under Governor Smith;

—they show that during 1930 and 1931 Governor Roosevelt spent to run the state of New York $373,068,772.16 more than was spent by Governor Miller, a Republican, to run the same state during 1921 and 1922, an expenditure on the part of Governor Roosevelt of nearly two and one-half times the expenditures under Governor Miller.

Under Governor Roosevelt's guidance the funded debt of New York state has increased from $355,000,000 in 1929 to $444,000,000 in June, 1932, and in addition the state had on the same date debts not covered by bonds to the extent of $135,000,000, a total indebtedness of $579,000,000.

Under Governor Roosevelt the net deficit in New York state for the year ending June 30, 1932, was $62,000,000, and the deficit for the year ending June 30, 1933, will be at least $100,000,000.

With such a record of reckless spending Governor Roosevelt would have the American voter believe him to be an economist, and elect him President on the basis of his vague promises to reduce the cost of operating the federal government.

He made the same kind of promises to the people of New York four years ago, and the record tells how he kept them.

The Record in New York

Port and Newburgh Lead DUSO League

Newburgh Free Academy scored a sweeping victory over Middletown Saturday afternoon on the latter's gridiron. The final tally stood Newburgh, 26; Middletown, 6. It was an overwhelming victory and greater than anyone really expected. Newburgh was considered the favorite before the game but it was picked to win only by a couple of townsmen or so. This decisive triumph, however, makes Newburgh look like the champ but until Port has been defeated there will be a margin of doubt.

This was Newburgh's first DUSO League game and Middletown's second, and the result leaves Newburgh with a clean slate while Middletown has another loss checked in the column, making it two. Port also made its debut Saturday and survived with a perfect record. The Chasemen romped over the warriors for Kias, 12-9, in a game that really was a thriller.

After two hard battles Kingston has an average of 500. The first DUSO contest the Maroon won from the Middle, 6-2, but lost Saturday to Port. As things stand now the Maroon hasn't got much of a chance of getting near the crown, but it will make the throne appear shaky until the honors are safely won.

Newburgh Potential Champ.

Schoonmaker, the sports writer for the Port Gazette, has already begun to call the Academy the "Potential Champ," and their decisive win Saturday would almost urge one to remove the "potential" and leave the champ stand alone. Newburgh must have all that a high school squad can possess. From all indications it has tremendous power that has not been tested to the utmost as yet.

It will be up to Port and Kingston to do this. Undoubtedly Port will give them the run of the season and Kingston will make a desperate attempt to on Thanksgiving Day afternoon at Newburgh.

Team	W.	L.	*Pts. For	*Pts. Against
Newburgh	1	0	2	26
Port Jervis	1	0	2	13
Kingston	1	1	2	15
Middletown	2	0	8	32

*Two points awarded for victory, one for tie.

City Bowling League Started

The City Bowling League opened its season Monday night with five matches which resulted as follows:

Colonials defeated Immanuel three straight games.

Downtown Merchants defeated Lyceums three games.

American Legion defeated Triangles three games.

Uptown Merchants defeated Livingstonians two out of three.

St. Peter's defeated Central Hudson two out of three.

Homeier Electric rolled the highest single score—246. Next to him came C. Buddenhagen, 222; H. Studd, 217; Bouten, 214; Ray Gaud, 210; Van Etten 204 and 202, and Paul 201.

Following the matches, the teams visited Immanuel Hall, Livingston street, and enjoyed a social. At the event the bowlers presented Secretary Bill Thiel with a brief case bearing his initials.

Two Outstanding Grid Contests

New York, Nov. 1 (AP).—The titular hopes of two of the east's eight major undefeated football eleven may go on the rocks at Philadelphia and Providence this week.

In Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Pitt's gridiron juggernaut collides with Harvey Harman's Pennsylvania Quakers. At Providence, the Bears stack up against the Crusaders of Holy Cross. All four of these mighty arrays are undefeated and only Pitt has been tied.

Pitt unquestionably will start a favorite over Penn. The Panthers' magnificent victory over Army, one of the east's best, and their almost incredible triumph over what had been labeled perhaps the greatest Notre Dame team in history leave football prognosticators no choice but to pick Sutherland's machine, over Penn. The Quakers' only two major triumphs were over Dartmouth and Navy, both of which now have been thrice beaten.

Wilbur Girls Team To Organize Again

The Wilbur Girls basketball team that last year won 11 out of 17 games will organize this season with the following lineup: The Misses Anna Butler, Sally Gage, Gertrude Buboltz, forwards; "Stretch" Smedes and V. Burns, centers; "Boots" Burns, Evelyn Smith, Sally Krom, guards; Melvin "Web" Lynch will coach the team and also book games.

It is expected that the girls will open their schedule on November 11 at Pythian Hall, Port Jervis. The team will also play the Rockne Five of Stone Ridge in the near future. Wilbur's best game last year was the one in which it defeated the Vassar Five of Poughkeepsie.

PUNTS and PASSES

(By The Associated Press)

Detroit—Oregon State's football team has a record to protect in its clash with Detroit here Thanksgiving Day. The far westerners never have lost a game in Michigan. Back in 1915 they wiped up the field with a great Michigan State team and in 1925 handed Detroit its first defeat in twenty games.

Chicago—Big Ten members have enjoyed extraordinary success in their intercollegiate games this season. Of 10 games played against Eastern, Southern, Big Six and Midwestern independent opposition, Big Ten members have won seven, tied two and lost one.

New York—More trouble seems to be awaiting Fordham and New York University, two of the biggest disappointments of the eastern campaign. Fordham, beaten by Michigan State and Boston College, now must play St. Mary's Gaels while N. Y. U. beaten by Colgate and Purdue, faces Georgia which usually plays its best football in the north.

Worcester, Mass.—Anyone knowing where a good fullback can be found might get in touch with Holy Cross' coaching staff. Don Kelly and Hannu, first and second string choices at that position, both are injured and the Crusaders may have to use an untried sophomore, John O'Connor, against Brown.

Cambridge, Mass.—Eddie Casey might have given his Harvard variety a thorough shaking up yesterday except for the fact there wasn't much to shake. Seven regulars were so badly battered they couldn't appear for practice.

New York—After their fine showing against Cornell, Lou Little finally has confessed the 1932 Columbia outfit is just about "the best defensive team I ever saw or coached."

Princeton, N. J.—Monday was promotion day in Princeton's camp as Fritz Crisler devoted all his attention to the second and third teams. Eddie Rulon-Miller and Rob Hallett both were moved up from the third squad to the second.

ARDONIA

Ardonia, Nov. 1.—The regular Epworth League devotion meeting was held Sunday evening in the M. E. Church.

This evening the meeting of the Epworth League Institute will be held in the Maybrook Methodist Church. Supper will be served at 6:30 followed by the usual good program.

Thursday, November 2, the annual church fair will be held in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. The fair will include fancy work, homemade articles, aprons, baskets, rugs, fruits, vegetables, homemade candy and cakes. Supper will follow with the following menu: Roast pork, mashed potatoes, Dixie sweets, apple sauce, rolls, coffee, tea and pumpkin pie. There will also be an entertainment.

Election Day, Tuesday, November 8, the Ladies' Aid will serve a dinner and supper as in former years. Supper may be enjoyed with music and election returns over a new radio.

Miss Gusdie Ward of New Paltz spent the week-end at her home near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Hallock Harris of Modena were callers in town Saturday.

Emmett Hyatt was a caller in Modena Saturday.

Miss Emma Hoffman was taken to the hospital Monday to be operated on for appendicitis.

Freston Paltridge of Modena called at the home of his brother, Eugene Paltridge, Sunday morning.

Miss Hilda Smith was a Saturday morning caller in Modena.

Army Team Prepares For Harvard Game, All Regulars Ready

West Point, New York, Nov. 1.—

This week Major Sasse is concentrating all his efforts toward preparing for the Harvard game at Cambridge next Saturday, November 5. The entire Army squad with the possible exception of Elliott and Winn, is in fine physical condition and those two players are expected to be fit by the end of the week.

The highly over-rated William and Mary team did not give the cadets the competition expected. Rather than pile up a big score, Sasse kept the regulars on the bench. This week the big team is bearing the brunt of the heavy work in order to make up for not participating in the "Indian" game. The work of the reserves, particularly the backs, was the encouraging feature of that game. Because of the possibility of academic deficiency or injury to a first string player, Army football coaches always devote considerable time to developing reserve strength.

After the Harvard game, the cadets will be at home for two successive Saturdays, meeting North Dakota State on November 12 and West Virginia Wesleyan on the 13. The western team gave Army a stiff battle two years ago and this inter-sectional contest will thoroughly test the mettle of the cadets.

Anderson Changes

Notre Dame Lineup

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 1 (AP).—A drastically revamped Notre Dame football team snapped into practice today as Coach "Hunk" Anderson sought to prevent a repetition of his team's unexpected defeat at the hands of Pittsburgh.

Three men were missing from the regulars' lineup—Captain Paul Host, end, Nick Lukats, left halfback, and Ben Alexander, center. Moved from the second team to fill their places were Hugh Devore, Mike Koken and "Kitty" Forman.

That's just a start, Coach Anderson threatened. There will be other shake-ups if the team doesn't capitalize upon its potential power.

"We've got a lot of good material and I'm going to find out just who wants to get in there and fight," he lashed out at his squad following the last practice session.

Heber-Hebrew-American Club Organized

Following its practice in the Downtown Jewish Community Center Monday night, the Heber-Hebrew-American basketball team held a meeting at which was formed the Heber-Hebrew-American Athletic Club. The purpose of the club, under the direction of Irv Reuben, is to furnish opportunity for athletics to young men between the ages of 17 and 20. Information concerning the club may be had from members of the Heber-Hebrew-American team.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Chicago—Don Gonzales, Cleveland, knocked out Tony Muscarello, Chicago (1); Oak Hill, Syracuse, N. Y., and Johnny Long, Chicago, drew (5).

Philadelphia—Jimmy Smith, Philadelphia, outpointed Cowboy Jack Willis, Oklahoma, (10).

Louisville, Ky.—Cecil Parne, Louisville, outpointed Charlie Baxter, Pittsburgh (10).

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

In addition to a number of other excellent results, the new football rules have had the effect of focusing more attention upon officiating and officials.

It has begun to dawn on a lot of folks that what they supposed was just a whistle-blower or a guy who galloped up and down the sidelines with a stick has a highly technical job and plenty of responsibility, involving speed of foot, agility, quick eye-sight, experience and good judgment.

"Let me describe a case or two, just for example," remarked Dr. Eddie O'Brien, one of the East's most prominent officials, after the Army-Pittsburgh game. "You saw Palmer (the umpire) call interference on a pass against Pitt and to my mind it was one of the finest decisions I have seen this season."

"The defensive player violated the rules by waving his arms, so as to interfere with the pass-catcher's vision. As it happened he also touched the receiver, but this was scarcely noticeable except to an official closely watching every detail."

A Difficult Job

"The new rules outlawing crawling by the offensive side or piling on by the defensive team have added immeasurably to the difficulties of officiating. They are good rules but complications often develop."

"To give you another idea: suppose a halfback on Team A galloped loose and runs 60 yards before he is tackled. He tries to get up and advance, forgetting the new rule against crawling. In the meantime he is piled on by the opposing players. That's another violation, making a double-foul, and under Rule 12, Section 3, the ball must be brought back to the point where it was put in play and be played over again."

Need for Instruction

On the same subject, Dr. F. A. Lambert of Columbus, who has been officiating for 22 seasons, mostly in the Middle West, says:

"Football is a complex game and the rules therefore are not simple nor are they quickly learned or understood thoroughly, regardless of what some may say. There is a considerable need for proper instruction upon the rules and how to apply them when one appreciates Ohio alone over 15,500 high school boys are in uniform. Younger coaches, especially, are not taught enough about the rules."

"Few realize it takes time, study and real work now to officiate properly. Formerly, many prominent football star could get a job officiating but today he is just 'in the road' unless he has developed himself."

Dr. Lambert's contributions on "A Study of the 1932 Football Rules" and "Football Officiating and Interpretation of the Rules" have become text books this season among officials as well as many coaches.
